Theme of ETQRET-2K18:

Qualitative Research is crucial to find superior answers to things that are unknown, filling gaps in knowledge and changing the way that professionals work. Research elucidates, evaluates after discovering new ideas, data and technologies essential in driving the society and humanity. Research is a chance to form a distinction and is for everybody and thrives on a diversity of approaches and views. Writing articles and selecting suitable journals is the need of the day and budding author needs to learn the presentation skills of these articles. Writing and submitting project proposals and working on these projects is the second crucial need for many learners. ETQRET deals these important issues and educate the participants in writing, presentation and selection. ETQRET-2K18 is executed at DIET in association with CSI.
