Importance and Information regarding celebrating/organizing National and International commemorative days, events and festivals:

Introduction

Every culture, nation and tradition has developed its own unique ways of honouring special occasions. Their customs and traditions are a direct product of their cultural background, history, religious beliefs and even the geography of the region they live in.

As eclectic as these practices are, if we take a closer look, we will see that there is a common thread of themes that connects each and every one of them. We will see that all of these occasions center on universal human experiences such as love, sadness, joy, reverence, success and sacrifice. No matter which country you visit, you will notice that we all rejoice in the same things. Similarly, we all mourn the same things.

It seems that as a species we are instinctively driven to honour the significant moments in our lives. There are deep underlying needs that drive us to engage in celebrations. As a result, we have found so many wonderful ways to meet these needs and create more meaning in our lives.
