

DIET IEEE STUDENT BRANCH

Designing Workshop Event Report

Venue : Computer Lab 5

Date : 30th October '24

Organized by : DIET IEEE SB

Student Members Attended : 38 (IEEE

Members)

Description:

The Figma workshop provided an engaging introduction to design basics for first-year students and the design crew. The session focused on essential tools, starting with frames, which were explained as foundational structures for organizing layouts in Figma. Participants also learned about color selection and how to create cohesive color palettes that enhance visual appeal and consistency. Moving to shapes, attendees were introduced to building simple icons, buttons, and elements by manipulating shapes to fit various design needs. A segment on basic design principles covered layout, spacing, and alignment, emphasizing how to create balanced designs. Throughout the workshop, hands-on activities enabled students to practice each skill directly, making the learning experience interactive and practical. The workshop concluded with a Q&A, allowing participants to clarify doubts and solidify their understanding. Feedback was highly positive, with many expressing interest in more advanced design sessions, showing enthusiasm for the skills they learned.

Glimpses Of Figma Workshop:

In this workshop photo, students are learning the fundamentals of frames, colors, and logos in Figma. This session introduced them to using frames as the backbone of organized layouts and covered the basics of creating custom color palettes to enhance their designs. Participants also learned how to work with logos and incorporate branding elements, giving them practical skills to build consistent and visually appealing designs.
